'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

Ever notice while driving to Oakland the number of gasoline service stations along the highway.

And the number of brands of gasoline?

At one pump you can get red gasoline "without a knock."

At another pump one may purchase beautiful violet gasoline "more miles to the gallon" or something.

At another pump one may purchase purple gasoline.

And so on and so on until one reaches the heart of Oakland.

And the color schemes of some of the stations seem to be the result of an artist's ravings.

One of these days the citizens who appreciate taste in coloring are going to arise in their wrath and slay all service station painters.

Every station has its color scheme, generally the same colors as used by the company that manufactures the gas it sells.

Yesterday's warm weather sent thousands of busy minds wandering.

Sent minds wandering back to those dim days when summer was school vacation.

Two glorious months of play, of swimming, of fishing, of careless responsibility.

Months when the only worry was when the next meal would be served.

To look back at those days many wish they were young again.

But, on the other hand, if they were young again, they'd want to be grown up.

So, there you are.

BOSTON GOB FAVORED TO WIN BOUT

NEW YORK, June 11.—UP—Two grim-lipped young men, vainly attempting to assume a nonchalant they could not feel, their faces drawn from the tension and effort of weeks of hard training, were ready tonight to do battle before 75,000 fight fans in Yankee stadium tomorrow evening, with the heavyweight championship of the world at stake.

Jack Sharkey, the Bostonian with the chill blue eye, to whom such preparations are somewhat of an old story, although this is his first actual chance at the heavyweight title, and Max Schmeling, the solemn faced young German who has been catapulted by the "fistic fates into an amazing opportunity, both are fit and ready.

After the manner of their kind, the two contenders for the title so lightly tossed aside two years ago by Gene Tunney attended musical comedies this evening, surrounded and cheered by fight fans and curious throngs.

$500,000 Gate

With the sale of tickets for the championship contest still continuing apace, it was announced tonight that the gate would exceed $750,000, possibly $800,000, with an attendance in excess of 75,000 if the weather holds fair.

The weather prediction for tomorrow night promises clear skies, the steady rains of the past few days apparently having left this vicinity.

Sharkey, because of his greater experience more than for any other reason, is the popular choice to win and succeed to the world's championship. Schmeling however, found many backers among the fight experts who thronged the White Way tonight.

Has Advantage

The Bostonian will have an advantage in weight of from 10 to 15 (Continued on Page 8)

C. POULSEN NAMED 'Y' CAMP HEAD

By JAMES SMITH
CAMP PIONEER, Russian River, June 11.—Clarence Poulsen, 16 year old camper, was elected mayor of Camp Pioneer for 1930 last night at camp fire. He is following the footsteps of his brother, Stanley Poulsen, who was mayor in 1927 and is now a tent leader.

Ted Faust was appointed to the position of fire chief of camp, while Howard Miller was chosen as chief of police. Harold Gabrielson was elected sanitary inspector, while Edward Bouquet was appointed as editor of the Boomerang, daily camp publication that is read each evening at camp fire.

Intense tent rivalry has risen in Camp Pioneer, both in tent cleanliness, sports, and in everything in which there is the least chance for competition.

The honor banner for the best kept tent was yesterday awarded to tent 2. The members of this tent are: Ed Robertson, Harold Gabrielson and Jimmie Smith, leader.

There is also close competition between the four tents for the long kept tent.

Tent pride has, as usual, caused the two score boys in camp to spend many thoughtful moments in producing a name of dignity and originality for their inhabitation of two weeks duration. The results are somewhat interesting.

Tent 1, directed by Cecil Bowman has selected as its title "The Land of Sophisticated Nuts." Tent 2, is "De Jug." Tent 3, has chosen as its name, "The Asylum." The keeper is Stanley Poulsen. Tent 4, directed by Ralph Shallenberger is "Ingahana."

A camp library of more than 50 volumes has been organized under the direction of Mrs. Reynold Carlson.

With the death yesterday morning of Robert Larue Harrison, 27, 1230 San Pablo avenue, Richmond, the automobile accident which occurred near Arbuckle Nov. 9, had claimed its third victim. SURVIVORS TELL STORY OF WRECK OF 2 SHIPS

BOSTON, June 10.—UP—Fire, and a yawning sea appeared tonight to have dealt death to 47 persons, after the 7,000 ton coastwise passenger steamer Fairfax rammed and sank the 1,100 ton oil tanker Pinthia, and was itself engulfed in flames.

A long stretch of blazing oil, belching billowy clouds of jet black smoke, still served late today as a grim reminder of last night's tragic crash which occurred in a fog-bound sea nine miles off Scituate, on the southern Massachusetts coast.

The latest checkup indicated that 28 persons aboard the Fairfax—14 passengers and 14 seamen—were burned to death or drowned, and that the entire crew of the Pinthia, numbering 19, went down with their ship.

Marine Disaster

It was the worst marine disaster in New England waters since the excursion steamer Mackinac blew up off Newport R. I. in 1925 with a loss of 55 lives.

Sixteen members of the Fairfax crew originally had been reported missing, but two seamen, J. V. Euback of Virginia, and Josiah Poco of 528 South Sixth street, Ferdinandina, Fla., were brought here late today.

They had been picked up by a passing fishing boat after leaping from the burning steamer.

Bodies Returned

The schooner Rainbow docked here today with the bodies of 11 victims aboard. The bodies had been picked up about two miles from the scene of the disaster.

The Fairfax, though seriously damaged by the collision and by an oil-fueled fire which spread very swiftly to its decks from the blazing tanker, managed to reach port here under its own power 14 hours later after its 10 surviving passengers had been transferred in a (Continued on Page 8)

CANDIDATES' ZERO HOUR JUNE 21

Saturday noon, June 21 at the county clerk's office at Martinez, is the zero hour for candidates for county office to file their nomination papers.

Some of the prospective candidates have been "shooed" out of the field by the mortgagors of offices, but there is every indication, that several additional petitions for county offices will be taken out in a short time, if the rumors current are correct.

Two county office contests, that will prove very interesting, are already staged.

Coroner Race

In the fight for coroner, the incumbent, Aubrey Wilson will be opposed by Dr. A. B. Hinkley. Both are admittedly strong.

In the contest for district attorney, both of the candidates will be in the field for the first time. Tarr N. Calfee, well known attorney, and welfare worker of this city, has taken out his petition, and James Hoey, now a deputy in the district attorneys office will also file. Calfee's friends predict he will leave supervisor district No. 1 with approximately 2200 majority.

Yesterday Louis E. Davis of El Cerrito made the announcement that he would be a candidate for supervisor in the first district. James N. Long, the present supervisor, is a candidate to succeed himself and he is regarded as very strong.

Frank Wilson, reported at different times as a candidate for assessor, treasurer and auditor, last night refused to either confirm or deny the rumor, that he had decided not to be a candidate, and would re-accept a deputyship in the sheriff's office.

Wire Pulling

Much of the time of the "pollies" for the past month has been spent in wire pulling, to prevent the entry of any candidate in the field. There are well established rumors, however, to the effect that there will be candidates for sheriff, public administrator, assessor, and county engineer.

In the local township contest, there will be much activity. For justice of the peace, the present incumbent will be opposed by Police Judge C. A. Odell, and Attorney John Moore.

There will also be three candidates in the contest for constable. J. W. Smiley, incumbent will have as opponents, Thomas Nee and Charles Peterson.

PASSAGE OF TARIFF BILL BY SENATE TODAY LOOMS

WASHINGTON, June 11.—UP—Uncertainty as to the tariff bill's passage in the Senate Friday was practically dispelled today. Republicans boasted and Democrats conceded it would pass. Democrats charged the alleged uncertainty over the super-protectionist Pennsylvania senators' votes was but a "smoke screen" designed to remove the tag of "Grundism" which the Democrats have tried to hang on the measure.

Chairman Smoot of the finance committee told the senate that Secretary of Treasury Mellon favors passage. It was Mellon who said privately two days ago that he was "not enthusiastic" over it, giving rise to reports that he was opposed to it.

Nevertheless the senate's action on Friday, the 13th, is expected to mark a milestone in political and industrial history. Senators noted with interest today the stock market which fluctuated upward yesterday following rumors of a tariff defeat. Private opinion was expressed that action either way will stimulate industry. It is reported that importers have already brought in huge stocks, anticipating higher rates, which are ready for marketing.

Political phases were harrowing brought before the senate by Senator LaFollette, Rep., of Wisconsin, who, with Senator Borah Rep., Idaho, leads the independent Republican wing of the anti-tariff coalition. It was 12 years after the passage of the Payne-Aldrich bill, he shouted, before the Republican party gained control of the national government.

The other anti-tariff wing, thru Senator Harrison, Miss., the Democratic leader, described the bill as largely the handiwork of Grundy. "It is Grundy's masterpiece," he said.

The lineup on the tariff was unchanged today, being estimated as 49 for the measure including the two Pennsylvaniaers, and 47 against. Harrison pledged himself to prevent all possible Democratic voting for the measure, although he admitted that he expected five to support it.

BARREL HOUSE IN WIN OVER MECHANICS

As the last glowing rays of the sun cast their beams over the first street baseball game last night, the Mechanics baseball squad was still relegated to the cellar position of the Standard Oil Twilight League.

The Barrel House squad, on the contrary, gained a full game on the league leading All Standards, by virtue of its defeat of the Mechanics aggregation by a score of 3 to 2.

The Barrel House boys started the ball rolling in the second inning by scoring two runs, when Whetzel and Taylor scored on Snaveley's double.

The Mechanics also scored a run in the second inning.

Both teams went scoreless from then until the sixth, when Taylor homed to right field.

In the last half of the seventh inning the Mechanics made a belated but futile attempt to rally, but scored only one run.

Their rally had the Barrel House team on edge for a few minutes: Soby had been walked, C. Kogler was out, short to first, with Soby taking second. Pop Ariett, pinch hitting for A. Kogler, singled, scoring Soby. Carson popped to shortstop; Da Baere singled with Ariett going to third, and the rally was ended when Pat O'Rourke popped out to short.

'Attic Lover' Starts Trial For Slaying

LOS ANGELES, June 11.—UP—Otto Sanhuber, a mild appearing little man with horn rim glasses, went on trial here today on a charge of slaying Fred Osterreich, wealthy garment manufacturer, eight years ago.

The trial started after Mrs. Walburga Osterreich, widow of the slain man, who was jointly accused with Sanhuber, secured a continuance until July 9 after her attorneys successfully moved for a separate trial.

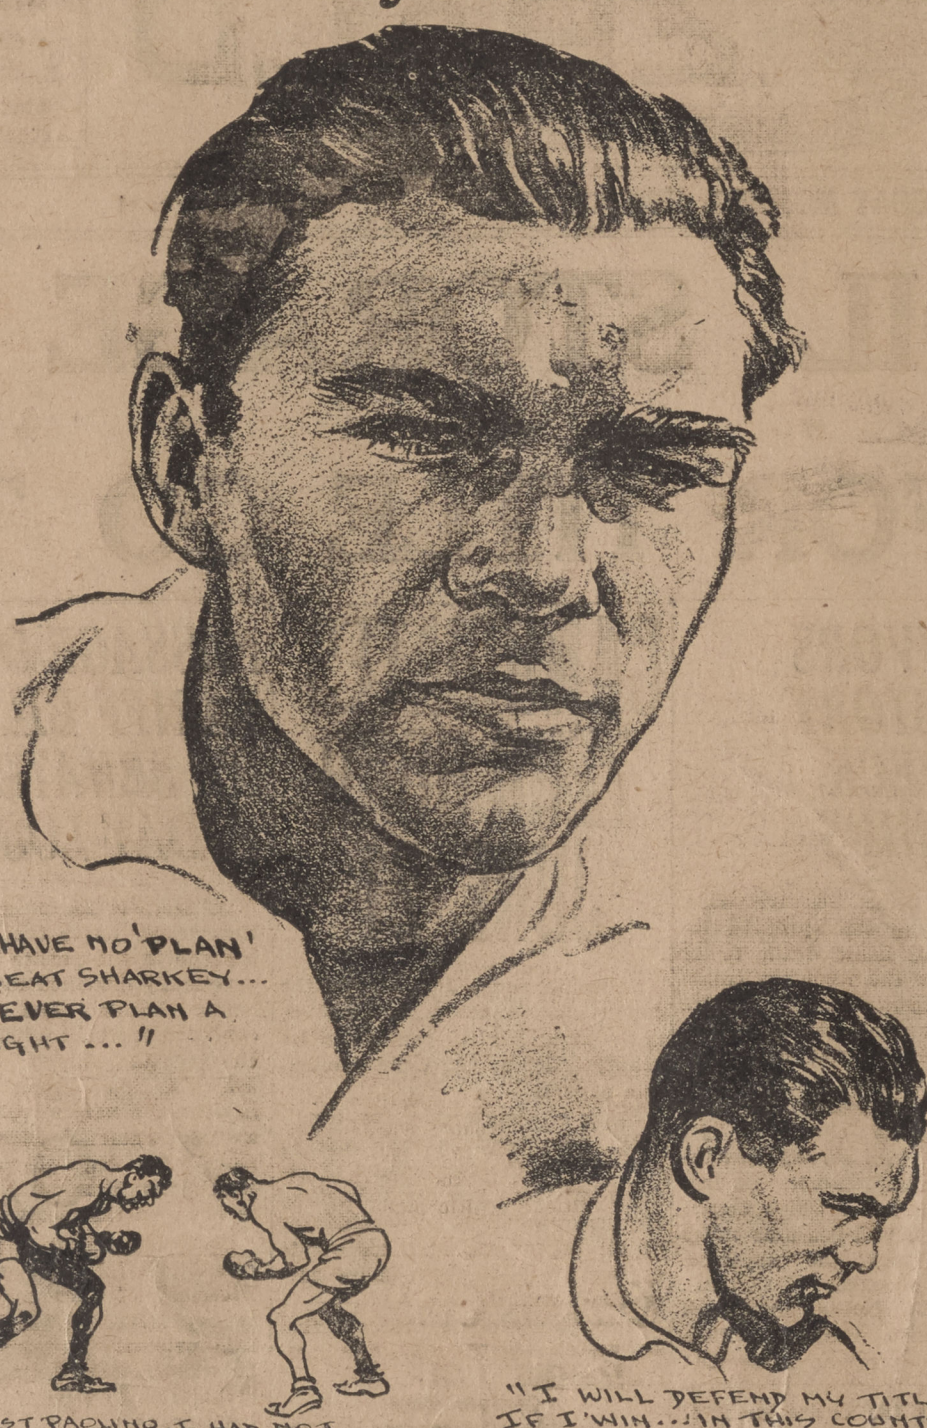

Sanhuber, termed the "attic lover" because he assertedly lived in attics of the Osterreich homes for approximately 18 years after he became infatuated with the garment maker's wife, is charged with shooting Osterreich one night when he heard the manufacturer and his wife quarreling as he lay in his attic retreat.

Police found the widow locked in a closet and she attempted to convince them burglars shot her husband. Although she was charged with the slaying at the time, the case never came to trial.

Sanhuber and Mrs. Osterreich were arrested after the woman's former attorney made sworn statements regarding the attic romance, amercu, Germany, this morning, remain at liberty under $50,000 bail granted recently in order that she might attend her mother's funeral.

Oaks Defeat Senators In Second Game

SACRAMENTO, June 11.—UP—With a brilliant rally in the closing innings, Oakland defeated the league leading Sacramento Senators 10 to 9, in the second night game of the Pacific Coast league here tonight.

As a result of the defeat the Senators are only a game and a half ahead of the San Francisco Seals.

The Senators started fast, making two runs in the first inning when Camilli, their first baseman, hit a home run.

Prehistoric Tree Found In Canal

ELLENBURG, Wash.—A partially petrified, prehistoric tree, believed to have been of some extinct species, held up work for a time on an irrigation canal tunnel when it crashed through the roof construction workings, 225 feet under the ground.

The tree was seven feet high at the base. It had been standing in an old lava flow, which apparently covered it and preserved it from fire and sealed it through succeeding centuries.

LOCAL BOYS IN VICTORIES IN NET PLAY

James Hurley and Darrow Sutton, Richmond net stars, yesterday advanced one more step in the California state tennis tournament by defeating Fred Myers and Gerald Schwartz in the singles competition.

After losing a love set to Schwartz, Sutton came back and won the two remaining sets 6-4 and 6-3. Hurley defeated Meyers 6-2 and 6-4.

By virtue of their wins yesterday the two local youths have now reached the final quarter in the singles competition.

The quarter finals will be played today with Sutton engaging Dick Boskower, seeded player No. 3; and Hurley playing Wilmer Trainer, seeded player No. 2.

Both Sutton and Hurley are entered in the competition for boys under 18 years of age.

Philip Carlin, Richmond's hope in the competition for boys under 15, faces a hard match today in the semi-finals, when he plays Donald Budge. Budge has defeated the fourth seeded player and is said to play a fast brand of tennis.

Carlin however, has been going strong this year, and seems to play his hardest and best when against strong competition.

He and Hurley are also scheduled to play in the semi-finals doubles matches this Saturday.

Claims To Own Custer's Gun

MUSKOGEE, Okla.—N. F. Hancock, Muskogee, claims to own the revolver used by General Custer when he and his men were killed by Indians in 1876. Hancock bought the revolver from W. J. McIntosh, whose father was Indian agent at the Standing Rock agency where Chief Rain-in-the-Face surrendered after the massacre. Hancock is firmly convinced that the revolver is the original that Custer carried when he was killed.

What we don't understand is whether it is a new war in China, or the same old war they always had.

Fish To Wear Tags On Fins

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah.—Utah game commissioners have warned fishermen not to be too surprised a few years hence if they pull out some trout sporting metal tags on their fins.

The state commission will place tags on a percentage of fish planted to study the growth of the finny tribe. Fishermen happening to snag one of the tagged members will be requested to report to the commission, and not to accept the stamped numbers on the tag as being merely an indication of the weight and size of the fish.

Man Making Violin From Native Woods

FAIRFIELD, Ida.—Using a knife and sandpaper as tools, and the wood of an Idaho apple tree and a Sawtooth mountain white spruce for materials, G. H. Kinney is manufacturing an all-Idaho violin.

Kinney is experienced in the art of fashioning violins from odd types of wood. Recently he completed a violin made from a piece of furniture that for years adorned the office of a bank at Old Soldier, Ida. The wood, wild cherry, originally came from Missouri.

BAXTER MAKES HIT IN FILM AT FOX

Popular acclaim is one thing and artistic endorsement another. Sometimes they agree, and sometimes not. But in the case of Warner Baxter, Fox Movietone featured player, they coincide perfectly.

Baxter's fine work on the screen has recently won recognition by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, which has voted him the first award for the best screen performance during 1929—a tribute to his famous role in "In Old Arizona."

It is a signal honor for this expert actor, who created a new type of film here in "In Old Arizona." The public and the experts are in agreement—and that makes it unanimous.

George Ade once said that when he found a sprig of laurel resting on his brow, he believed in "letting it lay there." But Warner Baxter, who promises to make his fame double secure by his work in the new outdoor picture, "The Arizona Kid" which will open today at the Fox California theater, doesn't intend to rest on his laurels.

"I am naturally proud of this recognition of my efforts," he said in an interview, "but I do not want to specialize in any one type of role to the exclusion of all others. Too much specialization is not stimulating to the actor, and becomes monotonous to his public."

"I like western roles immensely in fact, I believe the most popular role I ever had was that of the bandit in 'In Old Arizona,' but I don't want to become known only as a player of western roles. Such a reputation automatically means that the actor is doomed to play nothing else, and I prefer a variety of parts both because it's more interesting and also because I think the theater-going public likes variety."

"Personally, I'd like to make one, or perhaps two, pictures a year with a western locale—something of the romantic type I had in 'In Old Arizona' and 'The Arizona Kid'—together with the gorgeous settings that abound throughout the western states. But I also want to do modern stories—adventurous roles, different roles, such as the one I had in 'Such Men Are Dangerous.' Such parts cannot be assigned if an actor specializes in one certain type of portrayal."

Also Clark and McCullough in "All Steamed Up."

Miss Joan Lowell was slightly injured in an automobile accident the other day. We're waiting now for the account of how she swam ashore.

SNAKE STRIKES AT RICHMOND WOMAN

Mrs. W. D. Brown, 434 Twenty-ninth street, received a severe scare yesterday when she had the unusual experience of being struck at by what is believed to have been a baby rattlesnake which was lying on the floor of her garage.

Mrs. Brown declared she entered the garage to launder some clothes, when she was surprised by the snake lying coiled on the floor. She said last night that the snake struck at her without warning.

She immediately called her husband, who killed the reptile. Upon investigation, Brown said the snake proved to be a baby rattler about 15 inches long with just a button at the end of its tail.

Little one-year-old Ronald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Brown, was in the house and safe when the snake was discovered, according to Mrs. Brown.

Mrs. Brown stated that they had recently made a trip to Redding and it was possible the snake may have crawled into some luggage and been transported to Richmond. The theory that the snake may have crawled under the car and been carried here from Redding was flouted last night when it was revealed that the machine had been steam cleaned immediately after the trip. It was not believed the snake could have survived the cleaning process.

Don't Take Pills For Constipation

Ordinary pills taken to relieve constipation merely force a movement of the bowels without making the liver discharge its excess bile. That's why the trouble returns in a day or two and you have to swallow more pills.

What every constipated person needs is a good liver tonic like Plantax, to thoroughly cleanse the digestive system of all foul secretions and at the same time restore the torpid, lazy liver to proper working order. When this is done you will no longer have frequent headaches, coated tongue, yellow skin, sour stomach, gas, bilious attacks or other symptoms of constipation and liver trouble.

Plantax is made from the juices of harmless medicinal plants—Nature's own remedies—that act in a most easy way without "racking or irritating the organs" try it tonight. Large bottle 15¢ at any good drug store.

Cockeyed World Now Showing At Richmond

No battle royal ever held in a boxing ring, no free for all fight ever staged for screen or stage compares with that seen and heard on the screen, we believe, with the "punch" scene in "The Cockeyed World," Fox Movietone all talking picture now showing at the Richmond theater.

The particular battle takes place in a combination eating and dancing place known as the "Ship Cafe" at Coney Island.

Victor McLaglen, featured with Edmund Lowe and Lily Damita, as Top Sergeant Flagg of the Marines is off duty and "on the make" as per usual. He comes into the restaurant with Fanny a "pick-up" played by Jean Barry, and while seated at a table, someone slips Fanny a note. Flagg, suspicious, grabs it from her.

He picks up a "drunk" and proceeds to bounce him about. Then the riot began and Vic's educated knuckles went to work. And what we know of Vic's reputation as a battler, they are thoroughly educated.

Prior to taking this particular scene, Walsh, who always craves the real battle, confidentially informed McLaglen that those who would battle with him were all ex-pugs, Sugar Willie Keeler, former light heavyweight contender, Joe Herrick, a middleweight and a real battler, Charley Sullivan, Leo Houk and a few more.

"Now Vic" emphasized Walsh "I am paying this gang good money. Don't hold anything back. Give them both barrels." Those seeing the fight agreed that Vic gave them plenty.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."

Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

SYNOPSIS

Fair-skinned Dawn, mystery girl, is about to be burned alive by the infuriated black tribe occupying the British protectorate in East Africa. As the mystic life of the black god Malungu, she failed to produce rain. Tom Allen, her sweetheart, learning that she is white, not black, goes to Mombasa to collect proofs. Shep Keyes, whip man and bully, after inciting the natives to burn Dawn, offers to help her escape, if she will run off to the jungles with him. Dawn's reputed mother, Mooda, has been stabbed by a strange wild man. Dawn's father, Tom returns with his tools, just as tom-toms beat for the burning ceremony.

INSTALLMENT THIRTY-SIX

"Malungu don't answer Dawn's prayers," said Shep, "because she am false to him."

"We all know she is a false bride," agreed Hasmal.

"But," spoke Shep with dramatic triumph, "you don't know she was false to him, right here!"

Hasmal's eyes grew wide with disbelief. "You have heard what Shep Keyes has said, Mooda's daughter," he said to Dawn. "Is it true? Do you love this white man?"

Eager eyes were raised to Dawn. Slowly she nodded her head in affirmation.

"That is a lie," charged Dawn, "Shep wouldn't dare to love the bride of Malungu."

"It is the truth," cried Dawn. "He said he'd save me. He wanted to take me out of the cavern and take me to Mombasa with him."

"Another lie," decreed Hasmal, "in immediate words of Shep. He would harm the bride of Malungu."

"No! No!" chanted the natives in agreement.

Hasmal raised his hand for silence. "Go on with the sacrifice!" he ordered.

In a brief silence that followed, his order there whipped through the crowd an electrifying command. "Wait!" it was the Maid of Malungu who spoke.

So authoritative, so arresting was her tone that it pressed the hush that Hasmal's words had created. She addressed Hasmal.

"You say he would not dare to love the bride of Malungu," she said. "He dared to love his Maid!"

"Shep Keyes loved you?" gasped Hasmal.

"He loved me," she replied, "until the charms of Dawn matured, then she came between us."

"Think well of what you say, Maid of Malungu," counseled Hasmal. "If this be true, you, too, have sinned and you, too, will suffer."

The Maid's jealousy, which had induced her to utter the confession, dissolved in a torrent of unhappiness. "I loved him and he has left me," she sobbed. "I do not want to live. By Malungu, I swear it is true!"

Hasmal was won to the truth of her words. He motioned to three stalwart natives to seize Shep before turning his examination to the whip man. Shep, well aware that he was irrevocably lost, could not resist a final bit of anger.

"Sure it am true," he admitted, "his sneering bravado advising the natives of the contempt in which he held them and their religion. "Dawn am white just like de Maid am black."

His blasphemy of their god Allet Hasmal with cold anger. "Now, at least we know why Malungu is angry," he said. He ordered Dawn released. When she was placed on the earth, Tom, who also had been freed, swept her into his arms.

"My darling, my darling!" he cried, kissing her repeat dly.

"Take me from this horrible place, my Tom," she entreated, "take me to my white people—away from Africa."

As they started toward the trail, they heard Hasmal's final command.

"Malungu must have two lives," he said; "first Shep's, then the Maid's."

Dawn paused. "We must not let the Maid die," she protested. "Shep saved us, my Tom, my darling!"

"That's true," admitted Tom, puzzled. "He was at loss as to what to do about it. Certainly, in the face of her confession of sin, the natives could not be expected to free her. Shep was beyond saving, already bound on the burning pyre. Suddenly the problem of the Maid's rescue solved itself. The British troops swarmed into the clearing, their rifles leveled for action.

The natives, surprised by this new invasion, fled into the jungles. Then, above all the other din, a peal of thunder rent the night. It was accompanied by rain drops and in another minute the parched jungle was slaked by the steady pour. Tom draped his coat about Dawn's shoulders, and, his arm about her, they walked toward the barracks.

CANNON NEED NOT REPLY TO PROBE

WASHINGTON, June 11.—UP—Bishop James Cannon Jr., today won his fight to prevent the senate lobby committee from investigating his 1928 anti-Smith democratic campaign.

The committee, polled by chairman Caraway, decided against trying to force him to answer questions. It was decided also not to ask the senate for additional investigating authority.

The action followed the Southern Methodist Bishop's voluntary return today to the committee, after walking out during interrogation without being excused last week. Cannon said he did not intend to show disrespect for the senate in leaving.

Members of the committee said the action would be formally announced when Cannon reappears before tomorrow's session.

The committee was unanimous, it was said, in deciding not to insist Cannon should answer the questions propounded, which included queries about his expenditures of $48,300 in Virginia contributed by F. C. Jameson, New York financier, and $5,000 contributed by the Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals of the Northern Methodist church, none of which he reported under the corrupt practices act.

The committee today discussed possibility of calling former Representative C. Bascom Slemp, of Virginia, who, according to a letter Cannon wrote to Jameson, pledged money to Cannon in 1928 for some purpose. Cannon, questioned about this today, said only "it was not concerned with lobbying."

There apparently is no chance now for action on the proposal to subpoena Cannon, as he has said he would refuse to testify even then, and the only other apparent possibility of proceeding against the Bishop was removed by his return today and subjecting himself to the committee's authority.

This action is expected to end finally the long committee investigation into lobbying, except for reports to the senate of the findings of the committee, and possibly separate reports by various factions thereof.

SURVIVORS TELL STORY OF COLLISION OF SHIP, TANKER

spectacular rescue to the Gloucester, a sister ship of the Merchants and Miners line.

A chain of circumstances combined in averting a much heavier loss of life. The Gloucester happened to be in the vicinity and was able to reach the Fairfax within half an hour after the crash, and a calm sea made it possible to transfer the passengers of the Fairfax to the rescue ship over three gang planks without loss of life.

Ships Damaged
Had the Pinthis been a bigger vessel, damage to the Fairfax might have been such as to send the passenger ship to the bottom. As it was, a jagged hole 8x10 feet was torn on the starboard side of the Fairfax's steel prow and the vessel was shipping water as it limped into port.

Tales of panic and heroism, of thrilling rescues and or gruesome scenes in which helpless passengers and seamen, sprayed with the blazing oil, became living torches and plunged overboard to death, were recounted by survivors who were landed here today by the Gloucester.

Stories Told

"We jumped off the burning steamer," Quartermaster Eubeck related, "and somehow managed to swim out of the fire area. We had to swim under water part of the way to avoid blazing pools of oil on the surface."

"We swam around for two hours and were almost exhausted when we came upon a smoldering life boat, apparently from the tanker. We succeeded in putting out the fire which had damaged the boat by splashing water into it. Then we drifted around until noon, when we were picked up by a fisherman and brought back to Boston."

A government board of inquiry will convene here tomorrow to establish the cause of the collision. Fog Told Officials of the Merchants and Miners Transportation company, basing their statement on the report of Capt. A. H. Brooks of the Fairfax, declared that fog was solely responsible.

The Fairfax was proceeding cautiously at half speed of six knots, through a glue-like fog, enroute from Boston to Norfolk and Baltimore on the first run of the season, at the time of the crash.

Likewise the Pinthis apparently was traveling at reduced speed as it passed through the treacherous waters.

Slight Shock

Considering the consequences, the shock of the collision as the huge steel prow of the Fairfax knifed into the tanker was surprisingly slight as felt by the steamer's passengers. One man in the main salon, after feeling the gentle jar, remarked that the vessel must have grounded on a sand bar.

Drawn to the decks by curiosity more than fright, passengers were faced with a spectacle which will probably remain indelible in their memories.

Only a few yards away, faintly visible through fog and belching black smoke, they could see the wrecked tanker. It appeared like a ghastly red blotch as fast-spreading fire ate its way through the cargo of 12,000 barrels of gasoline.

Crew Trapped

Pitiful cries of the tanker's trapped crew could be heard distinctly above the roar of the flames, but although only yards separated the two vessels, those on board the Fairfax were unable to render assistance.

Soon the Fairfax's passengers and sailors had troubles of their own. The oil-spurred flames had communicated to the steamer's decks and within a few minutes the vessel was ablaze amidships.

Desperate efforts to quell the flames were made. Meanwhile a radio call was broadcast to be picked up, fortunately enough, by the nearby Gloucester, which headed to the rescue.

Ship Explodes

Explosions wracked the Pinthis and imperiled the lives of those aboard the Fairfax. Only a few minutes after the collision, the brilliant red fire which represented the tanker, was suddenly snuffed out, and those on the passenger craft realized that the other vessel had gone down, probably with all on board.

As the Fairfax passengers and seamen scurried around the decks, some of them battling the flames and others hunting madly for life belts, pandemonium reigned. Fire that swept the decks ignited the clothing of many and 11 pounds over the German. There is a general belief that Schmeling will weigh several pounds less than the weight announced by Joe Jacobs, his manager—186 1-2. Sharkey, on the other hand, will weigh 196 or 198, according to his trainer, Al Lacey.

Any suggestion that Schmeling, because he is a foreigner, would not receive a fair break in his attempt to win the championship so long held by Americans, was dispelled today when it was announced that Jacobs, his American manager, had been granted a license to second Maxie tomorrow night. Jacobs is under a ban in New York state, and has no managers' license, but the State Athletic Commission granted Joe a second's license to enable him to serve in Schmeling's corner.

The question of who will be the third man in the ring is agitating those who are concerned over the outcome. James A. Farley, chairman of the boxing commission, has chosen four referees, as yet unnamed, and will not let the man who actually is to referee the bout know of his choice until five minutes before the bout. Five or six judges will be chosen similarly and held in readiness.

Magnolia Out

Arthur Donovan, Johnny McAvoy, Jack Denning and Kid McParland are believed to be the four referees from whom the final choice will be made. Lou Magnolia is barred, and so is Eddie Forbes, who officiated at the Tunney-Heeney bout, the last occasion on which the heavyweight title was at stake.

Schmeling arrived in town late this afternoon and went to the home of a friend of his manager's on the Grand Concourse, overlooking Yankee stadium, scene of the battle. Sharkey has been here since last night, obviously in splendid shape and in the proper frame of mind. Jack attended this afternoon's game between the Pirates and the Giants at the Polo grounds, across the river from the big stadium in which he will fight tomorrow night.

DEMPESEY MUM ON BIG BOUT

LOS ANGELES, June 11.—UP—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion of the world, will not attempt to pick a winner of Thursday night's title fight between Jack Sharkey of the United States and Max Schmeling of Germany, he said tonight.

Dempsey said he felt each fighter had points in his favor but that it was difficult to make a choice so far from the battle front.

"Youth always is a help and Schmeling has that," Dempsey said. "On the other hand, Sharkey has had plenty of experience which should aid him. However, from what I read it looks like he might be a little stale."

passengers and 16 members of the crew leaped overboard during the excitement.

13 KNOWN DEAD IN SHIP DISASTER

BOSTON, June 11.—UP—Though 47 persons were believed to have perished in last night's collision between the Fairfax and the Pinthis, the known dead tonight was set at only 13.

They were Mrs. Ida Berkowitz, 22, of Roxbury, and Mrs. May Dearborn, 33, of Maynard, both of whom died of burns at Carney hospital and 11 unidentified persons whose bodies were picked up by the schooner Rainbow and brought here late today.

The missing included 11 passengers and 14 members of the Fairfax crew and 19 members of the Pinthis crew.

The passengers reported missing were: J. B. Walker, Kittery, Me.; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Meager, both of Milton; B. T. Constantine, Brookline; Miss Catharine Gardner of Medford; Miss G. Greetan, Boston; Miss Mary V. Graves, Boston; Lieut. and Mrs. A. S. Mulvanity and child all of Nashua, N. H., and H. M. Rose, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Queen Marie Will Act As Peace Maker

VIENNA, June 11.—UP—The dowager Queen Marie was hurrying home as fast as the Orient Express could carry her tonight to personally congratulate her son Carol on becoming king of Rumania and to attempt to reconcile him and his divorced wife, Princess Helene.

The queen, whose many efforts as matchmaker usually have come to naught, seemed determined to act as a peacemaker and restore domestic tranquility to the royal family.

She cut short her visit at Oberammergau, Germany, this morning, rode to Munich by automobile, and there boarded the express for Bucharest. Through a spokesman of the Rumanian legation here she issued the following statement to a half dozen American newspapermen and women who invaded her coach as it passed through Vienna.

"I am returning home so I can be useful to my son, because I know he has a great mission. Our entire family stand together with him."

"Most of all, I hope it is possible for the king to accomplish his task and complete the great work before him."

NEW TAX LIEN SUIT FILED

According to word received from San Mateo yesterday, a new suit involving tax liens held by the City of Richmond against property in the Canal Subdivision has been filed in San Mateo county. The suit, which is directed against Richard O'Farrell, said to claim half interest, the City of Richmond and several individuals seeks partition of 10 lots in the tract.

James P. McAuliffe, the plaintiff, is represented by Attorney Milton A. Huot.

According to word received, the suit asks the court to establish the interest of the city along with that of the other defendants.

Owners of 500 lots on the Canal Subdivision filed suit some time ago contesting the right of the city to collect tax penalties and interest prior to 1927.

The suit was filed in San Mateo county where Superior Judge Frank Buck had once before tried a suit involving similar contentions. In the first suit, Judge Buck ruled that cities could not collect tax penalties and interest under the old state law, before the amended act was adopted.

Martinez Man In Supervisor Race

MARTINEZ, June 11.—Anthony Reggiardo, of Martinez, obtained nominating papers from County Clerk J. H. Wells yesterday afternoon, announcing his intention of becoming a candidate for supervisor. Reggiardo's entry into the race makes a three cornered race for the post, with George Kennerley the other candidate for the office now held by C. H. Hayden.

by the state legislature to clear up any doubt that may have existed as to the law prior to that time.

The suit followed efforts of the property owners to get the city of Richmond to waive tax penalties and interest, and accept the principal sum of delinquent taxes in payment in full of tax liens against the property.

SCHOOL BOARD HAS MEETING

Discussion of the Richmond Union high school district budget was held at a meeting of the high school board recently. Ralph Bergen, chairman, presided.

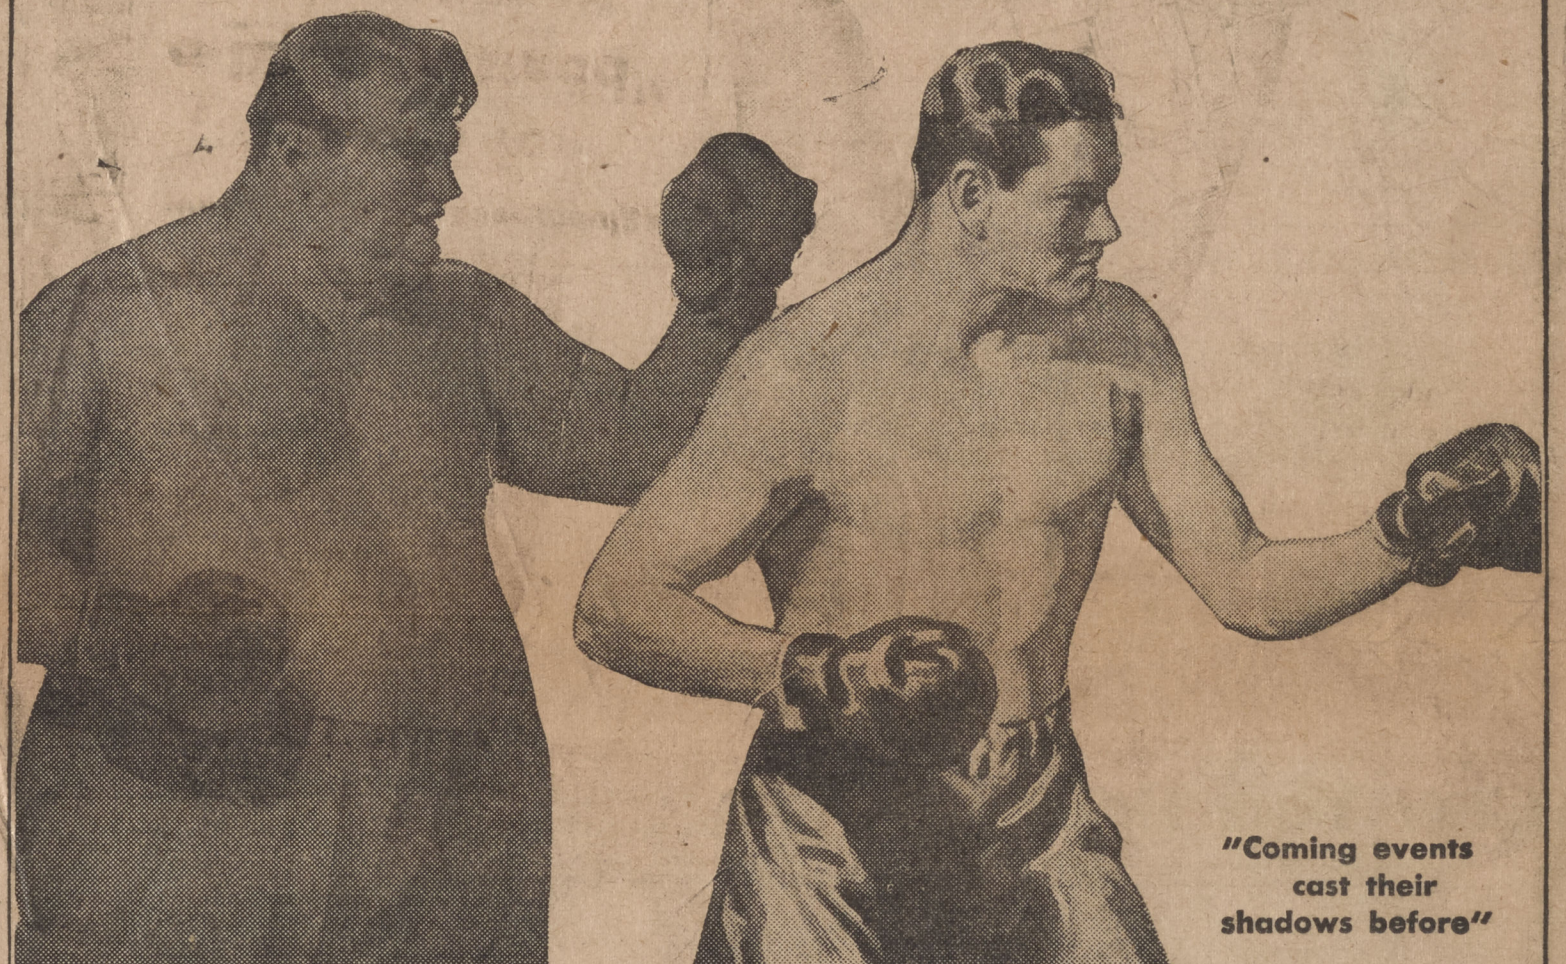

The board also discussed public liability insurance to protect the school department against damages resulting from accidents to school children, and it was decided the school should be protected.

According to an announcement, the high school board has called for bids for painting Roosevelt Junior high school during the summer vacation period, which will be opened in the Lincoln school June 19. The elementary school board also called for bids on painting the Lincoln and Washington schools, which will be opened on the same date.
